

Are you concerned about your community?

Do you feel like your voice is being heard?

There's a new way for you to connect
...and that way is through SCOPE.

SCOPE can help you learn more about the challenges facing your community and how to connect with the decision-making process so you can make a difference.

Add your voice to new conversations on topics like affordable housing or race and cultural relations. Have a new conversation about the opportunities and possibilities....

Why is that so important?

Communities whose residents are "plugged in" and have an increased ownership of the decision-making process are healthier overall. They have lower rates of school dropout, crime, and even fewer colds and heart attacks.

So check out SCOPE's community studies and tools at www.scopexcel.org or call 941.365-8751.

Learn more about where you live.

Get connected! It's your community...isn't it time you owned it?